

Why did the price of my subscription increase?

Subscription price levels have changed throughout both venues. Pennsylvania Ballet is committed to upgrading and expanding the company repertoire by bringing the best dancers and the best choreographers to the city of Philadelphia. The cost of producing this momentous season is higher than previous years, and the ticket prices don't even cover all of the expenses related to producing a season.

Based on sales patterns, certain seating levels are determined to have higher value, which also leads to higher overall package price. From season to season production costs do increase, but as a subscriber you will still enjoy the best seats for the Ballet's programming at the lowest price possible!

Why did the cost of my seats in the Merriam theater increase?

We have made adjustments to our price levels for the Academy of Music and the Merriam Theater based on seating data from previous Pennsylvania Ballet seasons. These changes now reflect the premium seats in certain sections.

What happened to the Family Matinee Series?

The Family Matinee Series will not be offered this season because the Pennsylvania Ballet is offering works that are bold, fresh and challenging, which may prove difficult for our young audience members. The CYO 3 package is available now and will give you the opportunity to customize your experience next season. While the Family Matinee Series isn't available, there are programs that can be enjoyed by the entire family:

- Don Quixote
- Nutcracker
- Program 5
- Program 4 (disclaimer: the world premier by Neenan may not be suitable for the youngest of audiences. The piece is still being developed so we aren't able to guarantee the content).

Why haven't I received my renewal information?

The Pennsylvania Ballet is embarking on an exciting new era under Artistic Director Angel Corella. In an effort to ensure subscribers have all the information about the upcoming season the PBA has taken extra time in compiling their renewal packets before sending them out. The Ballet thanks you for your patience and excitement!
