

Broadway Philadelphia 2015-2016 Season FAQs

Q. If there are fewer shows in my package why hasn't my package price gone down?

A. Subscription price levels have changed throughout the house and prices are based on the cost of presenting the performances.

- 1) Some of the "premium" shows are more expensive, which leads to higher overall package price
- 2) Based on sales patterns, certain seating levels are determined to have higher value, which also leads to higher overall package price
- 3) Our pricing is competitive with other national touring Broadway markets

As Broadway Philadelphia brings in bigger shows production costs do increase, but as a subscriber you will still enjoy the best seats for the Broadway series at the lowest price possible!

Q. Why are my seats in a new price level? (Amphitheater, Balcony Loge and certain parquet sections)

A. We have made adjustments to our price levels for certain sections based on information gathered from our patrons, comparable venues and seating data from previous Broadway Philadelphia seasons. These changes now reflect the premium seats in certain sections.

Q. Why does my package only include 6 shows?

A. Adjustments to the number of subscription shows are based on patron feedback, the availability of touring productions during the season and the overall artistic quality of the productions available.

Q. Why aren't you offering any smaller packages?

A. We take great pride in artistically curating Broadway Philadelphia so that our patrons can experience the full range of Broadway's magic. These shows provide a complete picture of the best that Broadway has to offer and we are dedicated to sure Philadelphia theater lovers get the best of the best!

Q. Why is there a $28 processing fee?

A. The processing has always meant extra benefits for subscribers – like extra savings, priority seating, payment plan options and more.

Q. When do single tickets go on sale?

A. Single tickets usually go on sale 6-8 weeks prior to each show's run. Keep up with the latest news about on-sale dates and advance purchase opportunities by joining our e-club and on social media via kimmelcenter.org, facebook.com/kimmelcenterphilly, or @kimmelcenter on twitter.

Q. Why are shows in different venues?

A. Venue decisions for Broadway Philadelphia shows are made based on the show's needs, the intimacy level provided by each different venue, and calendar availability. Additionally, we present shows in conjunction with our partners at the Shubert Organization and their venue, The Forrest Theatre.

Q. Are there age restrictions for performances?

A. Broadway Philadelphia performances are not recommended for children under 6 years of age, with the exception of programs specifically noted as Family Friendly. This recommendation exists to ensure all of our patrons the best possible theater-going experience. For all shows, including those designated as Family Friendly, all audience members, including babes in arms, require a ticket.

Q. Do any of the shows have live orchestration?

A. All of the 2015-16 Broadway shows have live orchestration with the exception of Rudolph and Riverdance.
